This series of prints titled Color Conversations consist of two grids of nine squares each. The print size has each square measuring 1½ inches. One square in the left grid is identical in color to one square in the right grid. This matching pair is separated and placed so as to have the same color appear different. A cutout of white paper is provided if the viewer wishes to visually validate the identical color. A label on the back of each print (also on the wall) identifies the pair.
