MEMBERS' JURIED

Detail from Dream of Makara by Sara Moran

The ultimate objective for us was to create an interesting art exhibition for the PAAM viewers—one that would present them with unique works of art showing as many different genres and varied media as possible.

After independently studying all the entries we jointly began selecting works that convey the unexpected, the thought-provoking, the edgy and yes, the joyful.

Through color, composition, mark-making, material or subject matter, certain pieces began to create a dialog, which is why you will notice “pairings” or “groupings” in this exhibit.

Simultaneously, we focused on the overall flow of the exhibition. Eventually, the show presented itself in its entirety.

We invite you to look closely and contemplate each work of art. There are many ways one can view this show. For example, it can be seen in context of current world events but also in context of Provincetown’s rich art history. No matter which messages and meaning may emerge for you, we hope you will find ways to “connect the dots” to further your thoughts.
